JOY RIDE ENDS IN DISASTER FOR TWO S. F. BOYS, GIRLS

A joy ride participated in by two Redwood City boys and two girls from San Francisco resulted disastrously at 9 o'clock last night, when the automobile in which the party were attempting to drive to La Honda went over the grade on the Alpine road near the summit and after turning over several times in its descent finally came to a stop, a mass of wreckage, in a ravine two hundred feet below the road. The occupants of the machine were: William Caesar, aged 15, 2725 Broadway street, San Francisco; broken, cut and bruised. Frank Mackey, aged 15, 2225 Greenwich street, San Francisco; broken arm and collarbone. Martha Larbee, aged 16, 282 Alameda street, San Francisco; broken eye, injured and probably in serious condition. Alice Cambrs, aged 17, 2679 Sausalito street, San Francisco; back injured, probably seriously. George Steinberg, a rancher living on the scene of the accident, came upon the scene of the accident, stopping the cries of the injured, stopped to investigate. The Larbee girl was unconscious and was thought to be dead by Steinberg, who took the injured girl to La Honda, twelve miles away, where he telephoned to a hospital for help. The injured were taken to the Quinlan hospital here for treatment and remained there until Monday morning when they were taken to San Francisco. They all will recover.

The beans are being threshed under the supervision of the County Agricultural Commissioner, within two weeks after threshing, before they will be permitted to be shipped out of the county. ## PETITIONS BEING CIRCULATED FOR SIGNATURES ASKING S. P. FOR BETTER SERVICE

The petition to the Southern Pacific company, asking it to provide modern electric transportation on the San Francisco peninsula between San Francisco and San Jose and give high speed and frequent service, was circulated this week in all peninsula towns for signatures. The petition is a strong one and is worded as follows:

To Southern Pacific Company, 65 Market St., San Francisco, Cal., Gentlemen:

The undersigned respectfully petition and request the Southern Pacific company to provide modern electric transportation on the San Francisco peninsula between San Francisco and San Jose and give high speed and frequent service via this facility between San Francisco and peninsula points. Such service is necessary to practical and proper development of San Francisco and the peninsula.

The peninsula is the only immediately adjacent territory available for San Francisco's suburban population. The peninsula meets all of the requirements necessary to San Francisco's suburban population except adequate suburban transportation.

We believe we are justified in asking the Southern Pacific to provide the same class of service to San Francisco and the peninsula as it has already provided for Los Angeles and its immediate territory, Portland and its immediate territory, and that the peninsula is practically the exclusive territory of the Southern Pacific company. Therefore, there exists a mutual interest on the peninsula that did not exist when such service was established in the other communities mentioned.

You petitioners claim that the development of San Francisco and the peninsula is more dependent upon this class of service than any other, and urge prompt consideration of the request of this petition.

MOUNDEVILLE MAN CLOSES A BIG TIMBER DEAL

G. F. Gray, a former business man of Redwood City but for some years engaged in the lumber trade at Moundsville, West Virginia, recently made a large sale of timber land from which he realized a large sum. His former friends in Redwood City will be pleased to learn of his prosperity far away in the sunny south. The Wheeling Intelligence has the following article concerning him:

Virginia is springing into considerable prominence recently owing to its vast acreage of mountain lands, abundant in an unlimited amount of field or hill pine, as well as valuable timber. It has recently been discovered that this field pine, which has heretofore been considered worthless, is valuable pulp wood to be used in the manufacture of paper.

This paper is not only used for wrapping paper, news print, and other similar uses, but it is also used extensively in the manufacture of trunks, suit cases, food product containers, shoes, men's clothing, and even some of the cheaper grades of cigars have a certain percentage of paper in their makeup.

Considerable of this mountain land has recently changed hands. A deal has just been closed and title taken to some 11,000 acres, which was owned mostly by Moundsville people, the deal being made by G. F. Gray, of this city.

Mr. Gray has also recently formed a syndicate of Moundsville people which has acquired several hundreds of acres of valuable white oak timber lands in Greenbrier and Monroe counties, West Virginia, and Augusta county, Virginia. This oak is of the highest quality and demonstrates the fact that Virginia as well as West Virginia, is rich in natural resources, many of which have been overlooked or neglected.

Black and Parmelee will be absent from San Carlos for several weeks and will give exhibition flights and do an aerial passenger business in a number of the larger and medium sized cities throughout the states they are to visit. At many of the places they will work in conjunction with and given entertainments under the auspices of the local posts of the American Legion, as Captain Parmelee is a member of the organization. The large plane they are to use was built by its owner, Mr. Black, at an expense of $10,000. It is the opinion of Black and Parmelee that it is only a question of a very short time when San Carlos will be established as the headquarters for all aviation activities along the peninsula owing to its favorable location and superior climatic conditions, being midway between San Francisco and San Jose and outside of the fog belt which envelops the metropolis a greater part of the time.

They visited California at the time of the 1915 exposition, and were so favorably impressed with the climatic and general conditions at that time that they determined to return here to remain permanently just as soon as they could dispose of their business and other properties without too great loss or sacrifice. War coming on delayed the opportunity until April of this year when each of them were enabled to dispose of their holdings at a good figure. Mr. Sizer was in the Kodak and millinery business while the McCaffertys had a large notion store in an adjoining building. While Mr. Sizer is practically retired after many years of strenuous work in the Nebraska city he will devote considerable time to photography in the studio he is building in the rear of his new home on the state highway here.

FIREMEN PETITION CITY BOARD FOR NEW PUMP

At the meeting of the City Board of Trustees Monday evening, the firemen presented a long communication setting forth the urgent need of a new fire fighting apparatus. The firemen, after making several tests of the water pressure in different parts of the city, discovered that the pressure was insufficient for effective fire fighting. In one test the pressure, near Beeger's Tannery, fell to four pounds at the nozzle. This pressure would not be sufficient to throw a stream to the second story of a building.

The firemen suggested that the city purchase a combination chemical and pump. The pump to be attached to the hydrant and force the pressure up to about 80 pounds. This would be sufficient pressure to meet all demands of the local fire fighters.

The apparatus will cost approximately $15,000, and the firemen suggested a bond issue to meet the expense. After considerable discussion the matter was laid over until the first meeting in August.

ROSS AND ROSS WIN A CASE IN SUPREME COURT

The supreme court recently rendered a decision in the matter of the estate of Josephine A. Phelps, deceased, W. F. Chipman, appellant, and Virginia Lord, respondent. W. C. Sharpstein appeared for the appellant and Ross and Ross for Mrs. Lord. The appeal was taken from a decision of Judge Buck last year denying Chipman extra compensation as one of the executors of the Josephine A. Phelps estate. The following opinion was written by Judge Shaw and concurred in by the other members of the court:

"This is an appeal by W. F. Chipman, one of the executors of the estate of Josephine A. Phelps deceased, from an order of the superior court refusing to allow him further compensation as executor of the estate upon the settlement of his third supplemental final account thereof."

"The final account and petition for distribution of the estate was filed on June 12, 1919. An order of distribution was made thereon, from which an appeal was taken, and thereupon the order was reversed and the court below was ordered to make a different distribution thereof. On July 22, 1920, a second supplemental account was filed showing the receipts and expenses of the executors during the interval between that date and the original decree of distribution. The petition for distribution and this account came up for hearing on August 5, 1920. Thereupon a third supplemental account was filed covering the interval between the filing of the second supplemental account and the time of hearing. In the second supplemental account the second executor asked that his compensation for his services as executor be fixed and directed to be paid."

"The total value of the estate accounted for was $539,388.82, upon which the executors were allowed the regular statutory commissions as fixed by section 1618 of the Code of Civil Procedure, amounting to $4,071.94. An error of $45 here appears in favor of the executors. Upon the final hearing in August, 1920, Chipman asked for an additional allowance as executor for services subsequent to the filing of the final account in June, 1919. He did not file any claim showing any extraordinary services, but claims compensation on the theory that the estate was closed at the time he filed the final account in June, 1919, and that for his services as executor subsequent thereto he is entitled to compensation in addition to the fixed by the code. It appears from the record that the services rendered subsequent to the account of June, 1919, consisted of the performance of the ordinary duties of an executor such as the leasing of the property, collection of rents due on the property and of interest due on claims owing to the estate, and the paying out of such moneys as were necessary for the completion of the administration."

Section 1618 aforesaid provides that the executor of an estate must be allowed certain commissions "upon the amount of estate accounted for by him," according to certain graduated percentages upon the amount as therein fixed; that if there are two or more of them "compensation shall be apportioned among them by the court according to the services actually rendered by them respectively;" that for any extraordinary services rendered by him "a just and reasonable" allowance not exceeding one-half the regular commission as fixed by the section, and that all contracts with an heir, devisee or legatee for a higher compensation than that allowed by the section shall be void (1) It is plain from these provisions that, aside from any extra allowance that may be proper for extraordinary services, the commission fixed by the section is intended to be full compensation to the executors for all services rendered by them during the entire administration of the estate from the beginning thereof down to the time of the final settlement of the estate and the distribution thereof to the persons entitled thereto. The administration did not close at the time of the rendition and settlement of the account of 1919. The appeal then taken extended the administration and when that order was reversed the full administration could not be complete until the final order of distribution was made and all accounts of the executors adjusted and settled. The fees already received by the executors according to the statutory schedule were, therefore, full compensation for all the services which had been rendered from the beginning of the administration until the final settlement of the third supplemental account in August, 1920. The court below properly refused to allow further commissions."

SATURDAY, JULY 23, 1921

G. O. P. PONTS WITH PRIDE

Those carping critics who try to make their fellowmen believe that the Republican administration is doing nothing in fulfillment of campaign pledges should cast their eyes over the legislative and executive field in Washington. They should see:

A peace established after two and a half years of impotency on the part of the former administration to accomplish that end.

A tariff bill in process of enactment that will bring independence to American labor and industry from the menace of destructive foreign competition.

Teh stage all set for the perfection of an international revenue law that will take from the back of business the heaviest load it has been forced to carry since the organization of the Government.

An economy program in active operation that will save the taxpayers tens of millions of dollars.

A vigorous campaign being waged against war profiteers with the object of restoring ill gotten gains to the Treasury and lodging the criminals behind the bars.

The courageous publication of facts concerning the soldier bonus bill that will correct the mistaken impressions of well meaning but ill-informed citizens regarding the effect of that measure upon the country's welfare.

The extension of helpful aid to the railroads to enable them to recover from the awful depression that followed the 26 months of Democratic mismanagement.

The Postmaster General engaged in a determined effort to make of the Postal Savings system a real help to the poorer members of society and an aid in the financial operations of the Government.

A budget law enacted and in full operation that will not only save hundreds of millions in the next fiscal year, but will be relied upon to cut down substantially the expenses of the Government during the year that began on July 1st.

The first meeting in history of all the chiefs of executive departments and bureaus, presided over by the President, for the sole object of finding ways and means for cutting down Federal expenses.

The retirement of scores of obsolete ships and the sale of surplus materials, unused real estate, etc., in the Navy Department.

The rigid curtailment of the Army establishments in accordance with the law of Congress that the enlisted personnel must be cut to 150,000.

The promulgation of an order that all bureaus must turn in to the General Supply Committee every piece of surplus equipment, and that no new pieces shall be purchased that can be obtained from the stock of that committee.

The work of the War Risk Insurance Bureau brought up to date for the first time since its organization in the early days of the war.

The veterans' bureau bill enacted into law, and the work of consolidating under a single head all soldier relief activities in full swing.

Huge appropriations granted by Congress for the construction of adequate hospital accommodations for our disabled soldiers, and the grant of authority to use Army buildings, not needed for military purposes, for the same work.

The conduct of experiments never attempted before in the history of the world to determine the part to be assigned in possible future wars to battleships and aircraft.

A comprehensive survey of conditions in the Philippine Islands by experts, upon which to frame a definite policy toward those possessions.

One of the foremost business men in the country at the head of the Shipping Board, engaged, with able assistants, in liquidating the greatest commercial wreck in the history of the world.

The notification to the world in readily understood language that the United States in the future will insist on the maintenance of its rights, whether won in the war or otherwise acquired.

A settlement of the years-old controversy with Colombia by a treaty in which American honor and dignity are fully upheld.

The adjustment of a political feud in Cuba that threatened to engulf that little republic in another war.

The suppression of rival factions in Panama and Costa Rica that seemed bent on precipitating a war in the immediate vicinity of the Panama Canal.

The adjustment of domestic labor disturbances through friendly interference of the Department of Labor.

The complete elimination of the spirit of autocracy that prevailed for eight years and the substitution of the democracy that distinguished the nation from its beginning.

The initiation of a program for a great conference on the subject of disarmament to be participated in by the world powers represented at Washington.

And yet some people tell us that the period from March 4th has been barren of accomplishment.

AN ANTICIPATED RESULT

Correction of the slacker lists as published by the War Department still proceeds. Rhode Island had the distinction last April of having the largest percentage of deserter cases of any State in the Union. Her total was 2,021, but recent reckoning has cut the number to 454, with further reductions in prospect. That is one of the results sought and anticipated when the War Department made the lists public. In no other way could the official records be corrected. The thousands of veterans whose names have been stricken from the tentative lists of slackers may no wrost assured that the war records at Washington bear no strain against their names. Had the lists not been published a crying injustice would have been done one of those brave men.

FAIR TO BOTH SIDES

It is fortunate for the country that the discretion lodged in the President by the transportation act is to be exercised by a man of Mr. Harding's breadth of vision. At the present moment the roads owe the government about $750,000,000 on account of additions and betterments made to their property during the period of Federal control. On the other hand the Government owes the roads between $700,000,000 and $1,500,000,000, depending largely upon whether the claims of the roads based on inefficiency of labor during Federal control are finally upheld by the courts. The balance of the amount is made up of sums due the roads for compensation and under the six months' Federal guarantee.

President Harding could, if he chose to do so, insist that the sum due the government from the roads be set over in its entirety against the sum due the roads from the government. Instead the President has determined, after consultation with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, to permit the roads to fund the money due the government on account of capital expenditures. Six per cent bonds will be turned over to the Treasury in the amount of about $500,000,000, and the roads will be furnished cash for an equivalent amount. The transaction is in no sense a gift of money to the roads.
It is merely a phase of the ultimate financial adjustment that must be made between the Government and the roads. The latter are permitted to postpone payment of their obligations to the Treasury, while the Treasury pays at once a part of the total owed to the roads.

It is said that the payment of the money will enable the roads to pay bills already incurred for supplies, and permit expenditures for repairs that are sorely needed. It is estimated that 200,000 men may receive employment when the new funds become available. Secretary of Commerce Hoover declares that the plan will furnish needed relief to all business, and make credits easier throughout the country. The Government will lose no money by the transaction. The roads will pay to the Treasury six per cent for the use of the money, and the Treasury will borrow it at a less rate, probably as low as five per cent. The difference will represent profit to the Government.

FOR GENERAL APPLICATION

The man who claims to be a protectionist but is for protection on the products of his own community only is no protectionist at all. He is merely a demagogue trying to secure favor by appealing to selfish interests. If protection is sound in principle, it should be applied to every commodity needing it, regardless of geography or class interests. There are quite likely some commodities that do not need a protective tariff, but they are relatively few, for the great majority of commodities can be produced in other countries cheaper than they can here.

Everything for QUALITY —nothing for show

THAT'S OUR IDEA in making CAMELS—the Quality Cigarette.

Why, just buy Camels and look at the package!
It's the best packing science has devised to keep cigarettes fresh and full flavored for your taste.
Heavy paper outside—secure foil wrapping inside and the revenue stamp over the end to seal the package and keep it air-tight.

And note this! There's nothing flashy about the Camel package. No extra wrappings that do not improve the smoke. Not a cent of needless expense that must come out of the quality of the tobacco.

Camels wonderful and exclusive Quality wins on merit alone.

Because, men smoke Camels who want the taste and fragrance of the finest tobaccos, expertly blended. Men smoke Camels for Camels smooth, refreshing mildness and their freedom from ciga-retty aftertaste.

Camels are made for men who think for them-

"FEEDING THEM TO THE SOIRRELS"

Theima, 7-year-old daughter of a California almond grower feeding her father's almond crop to her pet. Unless Congress amends the tariff on almonds, growers say they will have to follow Theima's example.

ALL CALIFORNIA BACKS STATE'S ALMOND FARMERS

Growers Face Destruction of 100,000 Acres of Orchards Unless Congress Amends Bill

San Francisco.—Claiming the support of every loyal Californian, 4,000 almond growers of the State will carry their fight for adequate tariff duties on almonds through the Senate Finance Committee if the present tariff bill is not amended on the floor of the House in Congress, T. C. Tucker, manager of the California Almond Growers' Exchange, declared here. "More than 15,000,000 will be lost annually to California if the destructive schedules proposed in the new tariff measure prevail," Tucker said.

The bill accords the California growers only four cents on unshelled almonds and eight cents on shelled nuts. "This is vitally inadequate," the growers point out, "because California almonds shell out three to one." That is, it takes three pounds of the unshelled nuts to make one pound of shelled almonds.

They are asking that this natural shelling ratio of three to one be preserved in the new tariff bill and are asking a duty of five cents on unshelled and fifteen cents on shelled almonds. "We were entitled," Tucker said, "to a four-to-one ratio as the cheaply produced and cheaply shelled almonds grown by the peasants of Southern Europe shell out four to one. We asked less than we were entitled to."

More than 40,000,000 pounds of the peasant-grown almonds were imported by American speculators during 1920 alone, according to growers' figures. To date, the California growers have not been able to sell a single shelled almond in the United States because of the ruinous competition of cheap Southern European labor with low standards of living and trans-Atlantic freight rates of foreign ships favoring them.

Today California stands at the threshold of the tremendous future of almond growing. She is the only state in the Union where almonds can be grown. More than 100,000 acres of her soil nourishing 7,000,000 trees will be in full production within three years. These trees will produce an annual crop conservatively estimated at 70,000,000 pounds of nuts.

Eighty per cent of the American almond demand is for the shelled nut, the growers state. "We can not hope to maintain our orchards unless Congress grants us our fair share of this demand of our own people," Tucker concluded. He said the demand for unshelled nuts was comparatively small and seasonal and that California almonds would have to be uprooted by millions after years of culture unless the shelled market is adequately protected with a three-to-one ratio in the tariff bill.

One hundred thousand acres of California's soil planted to 7,000,000 almond trees and representing annual return to growers of $15,000,000 are at stake in fight to amend almond schedules in new tariff bill. You can help by wiring your congressmen today to support growers' demands.

Adequate tariff on California almonds is vital to every resident of California. Wire your congressmen today for his support.

PLAIN FARMER WRITES LETTER

San Francisco.—Every Representative and Senator in Washington ought to read this letter from a California farmer:

"Paradise, Calif., June 30, 1921. "Dear Sir:

"I would like to ask if you think almonds will be worth harvesting this year. I haven't got the money to harvest unless you think there is some chance of selling them."

"A man offered me his crop the other day. He said he would sell them to me for $1.00. Do you think there will be any more payments on last year's crop. I have about eight tons this year."

This almond grower, who, unfortunately, must not be named, wrote that letter to his co-operative organization, the California Almond Growers' Exchange here. There are four thousand California almond farmers in the same fix.

They asked the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives to put a duty of five cents on unshelled almonds and fifteen cents on shelled nuts because almonds shell three pounds to one. They want a fair chance at the American market, now entirely in the hands of speculators who dumped 40,000,000 pounds of peasant-grown Southern European almonds on the American market last year.

FARMERS FORCED TO CLOSE PLANT

Sacramento.—L. G. Kimmer, manager of the California Almond Growers' Exchange here, announced that the new $300,000 shelling plant recently built by the growers will probably have to be abandoned if Congress fails to revise almond schedules in the new tariff bill. Reports from Chico state that the growers are disconsolate and will probably be forced to close their plant this fall.

The California almond farmers cultivating 7,000,000 trees on 100,000 acres of land are asking five cents tariff on unshelled and fifteen cents on the shelled Southern European almond, the natural three shelling ratio of these nuts. In order to give the California product a chance in the American market with the peasant-produced almond from abroad. The money investment of the California growers in their orchards is placed at more than $50,000,000.

Wire your representatives and senators in Washington today demanding fair revision of almond tariff rate.

DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES (By Claud Fox)

After Fred Stalter and myself had recovered from our disastrous financial experience through the sale of wild ducks to a San Francisco commission man we were content to dispose of our webfoots here at the then prevailing prices. A lesson had been taught us in high finance, through which many had been fleeced before, and in all human probability will continue to be as long as that detestable middle man is permitted to carry on his nefarious illegitimate business. We had not been so hard hit, however, but what we could survive, and we were soon again supplied with ammunition and knocking over the broadbills. Our partnership still continued, one hunting in the night time and the other during daylight hours, and often where there was no moon, both hunting together during the day.

An incident happened about this time, which, though it did not in any way tend to dissolve the strong friendship between us, created for a time at least that jealousy which is interwoven with, and will never be eradicated from the duck hunting fraternity. Fred was hunting in the day time, while I was on the moonlight shift. My partner was a tireless worker and always brought in his share of the beautiful birds of the marshland. Mallards were never plentiful on the marshes here, a few being killed occasionally, but when ever any of the boys brought in a pair on their string, he was voted at the top of the trigger pullers immediately. I had not killed one of the handsome greenbills for some time, and one day when Fred reached home with four, three drakes and a biddie, he was justified in being put in a class all by himself. To say that we all wanted to know just where and how he killed them would be putting it mildly. When questioned he replied: "Oh I just caught them snapping and got a pot shot."

That was a sufficient answer for the other boys. It was all we cared to have them know. Our partnership interests were to be protected. Just what creek he killed them in was no body's business but his own. At least that is the way I reasoned out the matter. When we were alone together I knew Fred would tell me just how and where he killed those grand birds. They were big northern mallards and weighed nearly four pounds each. But do you think he told me? Not he. That was a secret for Fred Stalter and no one else, and well he guarded it. The ducks were sold and the money received went into our ammunition fund, powder and shot to be used by us both alike, but try, as I would, the location of that shot remained a deep mystery, that is at least for a while. "Wait until I see if I can get some more, and then I will tell you." That was about as definitive an answer as I could get from him. I could hardly blame him. Probably if the situation had been reversed it was he who was a high honor to bring in ducks of that class; why should he share his glory with another. But he had more honors coming to him. The next day he brought in two more, the following day one and later in the week three. His silence had not been broken yet, but there was one sure thing that my curiosity had been aroused to the utmost. I made up my mind that I was going to find out where he was killing those mallards if I had to go without sleep for a week, and find out I did.

The following week he had the day shift, and as the moon was on the first quarter I hunted from dark to midnight. Fred had to hunt on the tides, so to speak. If the tide was high it was impossible to sneak up to the creek and get a shot, so he always left home so the water would be about half down when he reached the marsh. Knowing he would leave home about ten o'clock in the morning, in order to catch the tide right, I perfected my plans. "What fields are the geese working into," I asked him. "Between the second and third fences and down just this side of the Flood pond," he replied. All right, I said, I am going to get up early before daylight, go down there and see if I can't get a shot or two; then I will come home, take a nap, and meet you at the little pond at sundown. "Very well, good luck to you," and we parted.

The next morning I arose early, stowed away some lunch and left before daylight. I was going to be true blue to him to that extent. As for getting a shot at the geese, I didn't care a fig whether the birds came in or not, or which fields they were landing into. The location of the place where those mallards were being killed was uppermost in my mind, and I was determined to find out that day or never. I did not hurry; there was no use for it, but I reached the First Fence before the day was fully broken, and knuckled over a couple of teal going down the ditch where the fresh water ran. Then I sauntered down to the Flood Pond, found nothing there, and taking my time, walked leisurely back toward the Third Fence. I knew that those mallards were never killed north of the First Fence, and being aware of the route Fred would take on his hunting trip, I selected the junction of the cross fence with the third as a vantage point from which I could watch his every movement. The time dragged slowly waiting for ten o'clock to come, but I was fully rewarded about ten thirty, when by standing on the top of the fence I could see my partner coming south on the beaten trail that we both on knew so well. Gathering up some dead tarweed and stubble I fixed a small place to conceal me where I could watch to my heart's content. He came down, crossed the first fence and continued walking down through the field, in about the middle of it instead of going out into the marsh, as I supposed he would do. He had passed several creeks where I knew there were plenty of ducks, but made no attempt to sneak out and get a shot. At that time I could not quite understand the reason, but subsequently events enlightened me. Down the field he came, until about half way between the second and third fences, when he stopped, raised his hand to his faithful dog, Carlo, which was a signal to come in heel, and cautiously approached the mudflat which separated the field from the marsh. At last I was to be rewarded. Directly opposite, two hundred yards out was "Bushy Creek." Fred was preparing to get a shot out there. Crossing over the flat he commenced to crouch down as low as possible, while old Carlo was crawling along on the grass twenty yards behind him. A communication was received from Mrs. Mary MacBain, secretary of Gen. Geo. S. Evans Relief Corps, asking the usual donation of $75 for helping to defray the expenses of the G. A. R. plot in Union cemetery. The request was granted on motion of Supervisor Hickey and seconded by Supervisor MacBain.

On motion, Mrs. Nash, the clerk, was directed to communicate with the Interstate Casualty Company and inform them that the board is interested in the proposition and ask them to have a representative at the next meeting of the board.

Supervisor Brown addressed the board in the matter of the claim of Mrs. Mary Hatch, San Mateo, for the rental of a building at that place for a county jail. Mrs. Brown said she believed that payment should be allowed on a portion of the claim, up to the time that the owner had been notified that the building was no longer needed for jail purposes. A communication was received from Daniel C. Imboden, executive secretary of the Peninsula Bureau of Chambers of Commerce and Civic Association, enclosing copy of a petition to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, urging the electrification of its roads from San Francisco down the peninsula. On motion of Supervisor Brown, seconded by Supervisor Hickey, the petition was given the endorsement of the board.

A communication was received from Gen. Geo. S. Evans Relief Corps, asking the usual donation of $75 for helping to defray the expenses of the G. A. R. plot in Union cemetery. The request was granted on motion of Supervisor Hickey and seconded by Supervisor MacBain.

On motion, Mrs. Nash, the clerk, was directed to communicate with the Interstate Casualty Company and inform them that the board is interested in the proposition and ask them to have a representative at the next meeting of the board.

cordingly the claim was allowed in the sum of $25.

Supervisor MacBain addressed the board relative to a communication that he had received from A. C. Hellman concerning the Greer road, near Woodside. Hellman stated that despite the fact that the road was a public one, having been deeded to the county by Greer and Tripp in 1899 that it was being closed to traffic by F. H. Hubbard.

On motion of Supervisor Hickey, seconded by Supervisor MacBain, the matter was referred to the District Attorney.

On motion Supervisor Hickey was given permission to repair the Bay Shore Road in his district.

On motion County Engineer Geo. A. Kneese was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the construction of a retaining wall on the highway at "Salt Lake" near Salada Beach.

Supervisor Hickey brought up the matter of providing an automobile for County Veterinarian W. C. McLean to be used by the latter in carrying out his official duties in visiting the various parts of the county.

Supervisor Brown said she believed that the veterinarian should be given a machine, she calling attention to the fact that that officer is now using into the county treasury each month is fast becoming a habit, more money than his salary amounts to.

On motion it was ordered that Purchasing Agent Werder be instructed to purchase a Dodge car for the use of the county veterinarian, all the members voting "yes" with the exception of Supervisor MacBain.

Board of Equalization. The board convened as a board of equalization, all members being present and Chairman Thompson presiding. The minutes of the various meetings were read and approved.

A communication was received from Anna B. Bone, asking for a reduction in the assessment of her property situated at Edgemoor, near Salada Beach. She stated that she owned 158 lots, unimproved, and that the property had greatly depreciated in value since the abandoning of the Ocean Shore railroad.

County Assessor Flynn addressed the board and stated that if a reduction was made in this case, similar action would have to be taken by the board with regard to a lot more property on the coast side. Supervisor Hickey said that he believed in being just in the matter and that he was not in favor of assessing property for an amount greater than its actual value.

Following further discussion, the communication from Mrs. Bone was referred to the County Assessor, on motion of Supervisor Brown, seconded by Supervisor Francis, Supervisor Hickey voting "no" on roll call.

Supervisor Hickey addressed the board relative to exempting the property belonging to San Francisco and used by that city as a public park at Brighton Beach, on the coast side. The other members of the board took the view that inasmuch as the city was securing some revenue from the property it should pay taxes to San Mateo county.

MENLO PARK NEWS OF ALL SORTS

So successful was the Children's Pony Show and Society Circus at the A. G. C. Hahn home, Menlo Park, and such a furor of enthusiasm has followed in its wake that it has been decided to make it an annual affair. Just as the annual Madri Gras ball is for the support of the Children's hospital, so the circus will be for the perpetual maintenance of the Stanford Home for Convalescent Children. Approximately the same group of families support these two enterprises, the children and the youthful teen set having adopted the Convalescent home, while their parents support the circus in town. Announcement was also made yesterday that the receipts of the circus will be in excess of $2000. When it is realized that youngsters from 6 to 16 put on the circus, displaying a skill and daring of horsemanship that was the surprise of everyone, the promoters feel justified in announcing this event as an annual contribution to sport, recreation and philanthropy. By making it an annual event, a year-round interest in equestrian sports will be kept up that will add much to the gaiety of the young element along the peninsula. All of the girls and boys who participated in the affairs of the handsome thoroughbred horses. In fact, the display of horses at the circus was as interesting as the show itself. Many of the mounts were excellently trained, not only in all of the gait, but also in dance steps and other tricks. Miss Margaret Penn, sister of Mrs. A. G. C. Hahn, and Mrs. R. E. Fraser, both skilled equestrians, drilled the children, and will continue this pastime. Charles Dunphy will continue to assist. Mrs. Timothy Hopkins and Mrs. Hahn, who promoted Saturday's circus, announce that the handsome seven-passenger touring car will not be disposed of until the last week in August.

Mrs. John P. Merrill gave a dinner at her beautiful Atherton home on Tuesday in honor of Andrew A. Lunderback who had reached the age of ninety that day. Receiving with Mrs. Merrill were Mr. and Mrs. Lunderback and their daughter, Mrs. Marion Lord. Luncheon was served in the flower laden garden.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Powan at the Peninsula hospital in Palo Alto on July 13.

Mrs. W. H. Jory, nee Lenehan, is at the French hospital in San Francisco, where she underwent a mastoid operation. She will return to her home in Palo Alto on August first. She is a daughter of Mrs. B. Burke of Menlo Park.

Mrs. James Murray slipped and fell at her home on Mills avenue last Monday fracturing both bones of her right arm.

The Chamber of Commerce held an important meeting at the Menlo Park hotel on Tuesday evening. Considerable business was transacted. It was stated at the meeting that the Dumbarton bridge project was an assured fact. Private capital is ready

THE ROD OF MOSES

The Bible relates that the rod cut by Moses turned into a serpent when he cast it down. It is significant to 4000 orchardists of California that Moses cut the rod from an almond tree.

The California almond growers in the light of their treatment in the new tariff bill feel that they have hold of 7,000,000 serpents in the shape of almond trees covering 100,000 acres of the soil of this State. Having invested their time, labor, and more than $50,000,000 in the cultivation of almond orchards, they charge they are about to lose them because the new tariff bill now before the House of Representatives provides only four cents duty on unshelled almonds and eight cents on shelled nuts.

According to accurate trade figures, eighty per cent of American demand for almonds is for the shelled almond. This American market is now entirely in the hands of the speculators importing the peasant-grown and shelled Southern European almond.

To get a fair share of this American shelled almond market, the California growers are asking Congress to make the tariff bill conform to nature. They want a ratio of three to one fixed as the duty on unshelled and shelled almonds—five cents on unshelled and fifteen cents on shelled. Even with this, they say, they will have to buck difficult competition of European shippers who landed 40,000,000 pounds of almonds in the United States last year. They say that the tariff shelled at a labor cost of only ten to fifteen per cent of California's high standard-of-living wages.

Surely, California and her farmers are entitled to their reasonable demands in this case so vital to our welfare. Every loyal Californian should make it his or her business to write our Congressmen on the subject.

FAIR PLAY

California is essentially an agricultural state. It will be that for years to come and its prosperity and its future are linked irrevocably with the soil and its products.

The new tariff bill now before Congress strikes a death thrust at one of our greatest present and future crops. Unless Congress amends the bill to give at least a five-cent duty on unshelled almonds and a fifteen-cent tariff or nuts shelled, a natural ratio of three to one which prevails in the shelling of the nuts, thousands of the State's farmers are going to be ruined. There are now 100,000 acres of California soil planted to about 7,000,000 almond trees whose annual production in three or four years will approximate 70,000,000 pounds of nuts valued at $15,000,000. The aggregate investment of some 4000 growers is conservatively reckoned at $50,000,000.
